Reading and understanding your Reinstatement Requirements

The top section will let you know the status of your license and will list the total fees you owe the BMV. The next section lists your BMV Cases.

Warrant Block—If a Warrant Block appears on your Reinstatement Requirements look for the following words: Official Court Release Required. If those words appear, you need to call the court listed for that block to see what needs to be done on your case to release the block. If those words do not appear, you do not need to contact the court. The block is only listed because the fee associated with the block needs to be paid and is included in the total you owe the BMV.

Non-Compliance Suspension—This is a suspension for not having insurance at the time of a ticket or you were randomly selected to provide proof of insurance and proof was not provided to the BMV. Your first non-compliance suspension will suspension your driving privileges indefinitely until you pay the reinstatement fee associated with that suspension. Further suspensions range from 1 year for your second offense to 2 years for your third or more suspension. You must serve 15 days of a 1 year suspension and 30 days of a 2 year suspension before privileges will be granted.

OVI—This is a suspension related to a traffic case involving operating a vehicle under the influence of drugs or alcohol. If there is a date range for the suspension, you will need to contact the court listed to get driving privileges during that suspension. You must attach a copy of the Order granting Driving Privileges when you apply with our court.

License Suspension/Forfeiture—This is a suspension related to a traffic or criminal case. If there is a date range for the suspension, you will need to contact the court listed to see what needs to be done on your case to remove the suspension.

Child Support Suspension—This suspension is related to child support payments. If there is a date range for the suspension, you will need to contact the court listed to see what needs to be done on your case to remove the suspension.

Judgment Suspension or Security Suspension—These suspensions are usually related to a traffic accident. If there is a date range for the suspension, you will need to contact the party listed to make payment arrangements in order to remove the suspension.

12 Point Suspension—This is a suspension issued by the BMV because of too many points on your license. You can get privileges during this suspension. You must complete a Remedial Driving Course prior to filing your request for privileges. Bring a copy of the Certificate of Completion when you file.
